Changes In A,B,C,D Introduced By Fr. Galvin

By John Feller

Dean Galvin has announced a new grading system which goes into effect this semester. Under the new system, the three grades of B+, C+, and D+ will be added to the previous arrangement of A, B, C, D, E, and F. The grade of B+ is equivalent to 3.5; C+, equivalent to 2.5; and D+, equivalent to 1.5 in determining the Quality Point Average.

The plan was introduced by Father Galvin, and was studied and approved by the Committee on Purposes and Standards last May. It was then submitted to the Academic Council which passed that these grades be added to the former arrangement. Final approval came from President Beatty at the end of last month.

Reasons For Change

The majority of the faculty members were for some system of differentiation in grades. This would enable them to distinguish more accurately the academic achievements of their students.

Such a system involves no radical change in the former system, but does insure a more accurate QPA. This fact is highly important because class ranks, promotions, and probation depend on the QPA.

Effective Immediately

These additions to the grading system shall be made effective immediately (this semester).

In addition to aiding the faculty in making more accurate decisions, the new system will benefit the students. In many cases, the result will be a higher QPA.

According to Dean Galvin, this plan has been up for consideration since last Spring. Its recent approval by the President and Academic Council is welcomed with enthusiasm by the student body who look upon it as an opportunity to gain an exact picture of their ability.

Assembly Planned This Morning In Cohn Auditorium

A student assembly will be held this morning in Cohn Hall at 10:00. Father Galvin, with the assistance of Ken Grey, will preside over the meeting. All Loyola students are asked to attend.

The Dean will speak of things which have an academic interest to the students. Student Council heads will take up matters of controversy on campus, such as the compulsory First Friday attendance, and ask students to comment to their representatives on them. Class presidents will also speak in order to outline certain details to the members of their years.

Girls To Speak

Notre Dame will send a delegation to speak to students about the proposed idea of better co-operation between the two colleges. Current plans call for the opening of Notre Dame facilities on weekends in order to provide students with inexpensive evenings.

"Who's Who" Names Thirteen Loyola Men

Thirteen seniors have been accepted as Loyola's representatives in "Who's Who Among Students In American Universities And Colleges." This nation-wide honor includes listing in the organization's annual directory which is distributed among educational and commercial institutions through the country. Selection is made on the basis of scholastic achievement, extra-curricular participation and leadership qualities.

The students elected are Fred Benson, John Connor, Thom Curtis, Bob Goldsmith, Ken Gray, Tim Himmelheber, Tony Hughes, John Jordan, Janne Olson, Dick Prodey, Tom Schultz, Denny Smyth and Don Torres. All are in the top twenty percent of the senior class.

Army Men

John Connor, Cadet Colonel of the ROTC, is an accounting major and the corresponding secretary of the Student Council. John is also president of the Management Club, a member of St. John Berchman's Society and ASN. Fred Benson, A.B. History, is the Captain of the Pershing Rifles, a member of the Scabbard and Blade, AUSA, and the History Academy. Dick Prodey, A.B. English, has as his titles: President of the Senior Class and Executive Officer of the PR's. Another Army officer and the president of the Debating Society is Thom Curtis, who is also a member of TKA and the IRC.

Mathematicians

Tim Himmelheber, Tony Hughes and John Jordan are all Math majors. Timmy is president of the Math Club, Managing Editor of the Greyhound, and a member of the Glee Club and the Yearbook. Tony is a former member of the Glee Club and the Track Team. He is also in the ranks of ASN and the swimming team. John Jordan includes the Physics Club and Yearbook among his activities.

Students Plan Loyola Night

On Wednesday, November 23, Thanksgiving Eve, the twenty-third annual presentation of "Loyola Night" will be held at 8 o'clock in Cohn Hall.

Talent Sprouts

As in past years Fr. John J. Scanlan S.J., moderator of the Dramatics Society, will moderate the presentation and this year's program should prove even more delightful than in previous years. Loyola night is the one night in which the entire student body has a chance to display its talents. The evening's entertainment consist of satirical skits, impersonations and pantomimes. The theme is humor, and the students may make light of anything.

Traditional Backbone

Traditionally, the upperclassmen have the backbone of the program. However, Fr. Scanlan is urging the entire student body to participate, especially the Freshmen and Sophomores, either individually or in groups.

As Master of Ceremonies this year, Dick Prodey makes his second appearance on the Loyola stage. His able performance last year won him much acclaim.

Good and Long

Practice try-outs will be held on Monday and Tuesday night, November 21 and 22 beginning at 7 o'clock. Those considered good enough will be allowed to participate. Length is no object, since as Fr. Scanlan says, "An act can be as long as it is good."

There will be an orchestra dance following the show. The admission will be one dollar per person. Try to attend this event and bring a date. The evening should be both delightful and entertaining.

Editorials

Must Be Bought

Again this year, the purchase of the school yearbook, the Evergreen Annual, will be compulsory for all students. We feel this to be a good idea.

In past years the book was classified as a senior project, and received no budget from the school's activities fund. The seniors were responsible for the burden of producing and financing the publication. As a result, the book gave little or no recognition, except in activities to the underclassmen. Thus the underclasses lost interest in the yearbook and would not support it. And so the senior class was criticized for producing a poor yearbook.

The 1959-60 Evergreen Annual was an excellent publication and should prove that the compulsory system is a satisfactory solution to the problem of producing an interesting yearbook for all. With last year's book as a guide, and the knowledge that such a system can be successful, the senior class should produce an even better publication this year.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir:

During the late political campaign much interest was evinced in the partisan debate. The impromptu debaters conducted themselves extremely well, perhaps because of their preference of one candidate over another. The audience reaction was animated for the same reason.

Now that all the birdseed of the campaign is over, I hope that the interest in persuasive speaking will not wane. The Bellarmine Debating Society provides the vehicle for Loyola undergraduates to participate in intercollegiate contests of speaking proficiency. All those students who have any interest in such contests are cordially invited to participate in the debating program for the coming year.

Meet The Mole

Loyola High School has graduated many fine athletes who, during their tenure at Loyola College, have made the headlines on the varsity level. But Norman Anthony "Mole" Vitrano while not being successful in this vein has devoted his time to the organization of athletics within the College itself. Although not too interested in athletics while in high school, "Mole" upon entering Loyola College, realized the wholesome importance of intramural competition. While spending most of his free time on the basketball court, Mole banded together a group of infamous personalities who to this day are considered the talented terrors of intramural sports.

With such names as John Coleman, Jim Foley, Larry Sturm, Frank Wiczynski, Ed Liberatore and Percy Harnek, it was evident that the newly organized "Moleskins" were equipped with championship material.

Rounding his squad into shape

The Mole gazes over his prospects on the court.

Mole and the Moleskins posted a 1-2 record while the student body looked on in complete astonishment.

The Sophomore year saw the Moleskins literally tear the league apart while recording a phenomenal 2-2 season.

Adding John Healy to the squad Mole knew that expansion was the thing and with stars such as Tom

Schultz, Larry Sturm, Matt Schwien-teck, Pete Karcewski, John Coleman, Jim Kneefsey, Don Hodnet, Jerry Sibiski, Gerry Knell and Bill Small, the team went on to win the championship that year.

Under the player coach guidance of the "Mole," the Junior year saw the Moleskins mightier than ever, winning the basketball championship, finishing second in football and placing third in softball. With the Senior year coming up, Mole and the Moleskins predict championships in all sports.

After graduation and a stretch with Uncle Sam, Norman Anthony (Mole) Vitrano will be doing his organizing for Tony Vitrano. With his abilities manifested in the mighty Moleskin organization, success in the future is inevitable.

City Life

This evening at 8 p.m. a concert will be given in Cohn Hall featuring the world famous pianist, Miss Ruslanda Antonowicz. After successful tours in Europe and in South America, Miss Antonowicz is presently studying at the Peabody Institute in Baltimore. The concert is to be the first in a series of three sponsored by the Music Club and the Gorman Lecture Series.

Concerning Miss Antonowicz's virtuosity, the renowned pianist Miss Virginia Reinecke has stated, "... Miss Antonowicz approaches genius." Since the admission for the concert is free and the cultural rewards immeasurable, students should take advantage of this opportunity to see and hear a great contemporary pianist.

WANTED! A basketball player in the Mike Sneeringer tradition. Coach Lefty Reitz is faced with the task of replacing Mike who was undoubtedly one of the best shots ever to grace the court at Evergreen. Mike's departure via the graduation route is going to lay the burden of scoring on the capable, but singular shoulders of John Heagney. That is, unless Mr. Reitz can reach into his bag of tricks and produce a scorer.

Lettermen And B-Squad Comers

Several lettermen from last year's team appear to have the ability, but under game conditions they have failed to display the coolness which is necessary to be an effective scorer in Mason-Dixon play. Lack of enough game experience could be the reason for this, but this is something that can only be answered in time.

Last year's B-squad also produced several players with the ability to score as they demonstrated in competition. The question is, however, whether or not they will be able to duplicate their scoring in Mason-Dixon play.

Freshman To Press

Freshmen are always an unknown quantity and are seldom counted on to help the Hounds a great deal in their first year of eligibility. In Jody Satterfield and Alex Cummings however, two products of Loyola High School, the Hounds have two fine prospects, either of whom might prove to be the answer to the scoring problem. Alex is reputed to be the better shot of the two, but Jody has shown some real promise with his one-hander. At any rate they both look cool and confident enough to make the jump in their first year, so don't be surprised if this pair does some scoring for the Hounds this year.

Richard Campbell (30) and Tom Schultz vie for ball. Sam Amato looks on.

Mason Dixon Harriers Set For Invitational

As the crosscountry year draws to a close, the Loyola Invitational becomes progressively closer. The day for this is tomorrow at three o'clock. There will be six teams entered in this and it should be a very interesting meet. Competing, along with Loyola, are American University, Gallaudet College, Washington College, Mount Saint Mary's, and Towson State Teachers' College.

Things To Look For

The competition for top team honors should be closely contested between American University and the recently rejuvenated Gallaudet College. Gallaudet has no outstanding runner, but they have the best team spread of anyone in competition.

American University has Marienko as its top man just as the "Hounds" have Frampton. The record for this event is sixteen minutes and twelve seconds set by Wayne Gallatin of Baltimore University, but there are many good runners in competition and anything might happen.

Future Meets

The "Hounds" will go against Towson State Teachers on Tuesday in a meet which had not originally been scheduled. Due to the heavy loss by injury on both sides, the meet should be a close one.

Mat Matter

Experience is a very important asset to the 1960-61 Loyola wrestling team. Coach Dick Clem has lost only one of last year's first stringers. This was not a graduation loss though. Buck Parr, one of last year's outstanding wrestlers, has gone to dental school. He was slated to be a co-captain this year. Leading the Hound wrestlers is captain Charlie Carey who wrestles at 165. He is the best wrestler on the squad and can be counted on for a solid performance.

Experience is not a necessary factor in trying out for the wrestling team and many spots are open for prospective grapplers. Freshmen should contact Dick Clem!

By Darrell Russell

Last Monday Loyola completed its most successful soccer season since 1948. Twelve years ago the Hound kickers had a 6-1 record to take the Mason-Dixon championship. This year they had a (7-5) overall record and (7-4) league total. The closest Loyola came to this since '48 was 5-3 in 1950.

Final Victory

Last Saturday Loyola took a 4-0 win from weak Randolph-Macon. This game had more different scorers for the Hounds than any other game this year. Knocking home markers were Vic Brocolino, Dennis Grabowski, Jim Kennedy, and Bill Knoche.

The Hounds were in complete control of the game from the start. They continually outthrust R.M. and controlled the ball throughout. The 'yellow jackets' goalie Jack Jones was constantly harrassed as Loyola's halfback trio of Sammy Amato, Tom Schultz, and Kennedy repeatedly shoved the ball into the host's territory.

This was a season which saw Loyola in contention for the title down to the last two weeks. They finally dropped out after successive losses to Johns Hopkins and B.U.

It now appears that B.U. and Lynchburg will battle it out for league laurels in the championship game to be held on Nov. 22nd.

Slow Start

Loyola opened its season with its annual non-league affair against powerful Maryland, taking a 5-0 defeat. They then bested a so-so Towson team 2-1 and dropped an overtime heartbreaker to CU. by the same score.

At this point it seemed the Greyhound team was in for another mediocre season. However, Coach Tommy Lind made a few shifts in positions and the starting lineup. This move seemed to add new life to the scoring potential and sent the kickers reeling to five consecutive wins over A.U., Mt. St. Mary's, Gallaudet, Georgetown, and Western Maryland.

Scoring Record Set

Dennis Grabowski proved to be outstanding as he set a school record of 19 goals. Goalie Wallenhorst, although suffering at times from bad temper, had a good sophomore season. Fullback Wade Bowman, Halfback Tom Schultz, and inside right, Bucky Effinger, the only seniors, graduate from the team with excellent four-year tenures. Last year Wade captured all-league honors and should again be among the elite. He will long be remembered and sorely missed.

However, with the nucleus of the team coming back, and blessed with many good freshman and sophomore prospects for the future are excellent. Next year, the sky is the limit.

Bill Knoche, boots ball toward goal in soccer action. Charlie Effinger, Jr. follows play.
